HOGS.

The supply of hogs was fair, fully up to the demand, and the market was moderately active though as compared with last week, there was but little change in prices, say 4 to 5½ cts. The competition among the regular dealers is so sharp that there is little or no margin, and at present there is not much difference between the wholesale and retail prices; butchers are buying a half dozen about as cheap as they could buy a car load.

ALSO, A SEWING MACHINE.

y instinent, and with such case and certainly, it hat one of the great difficulties met with m ordinary machines is entirely avoided. The feed is adjustable, so that it will work with equal facility either light or heavy goods.

This being comparatively a new machine, persons weald naturally be a little suspicious of buving a machine they knew but little about, but by referring to the following named persons who have these machines in use, you can be better satisfied:

What we are after to-day.

We warrant these machines to be what they are represented, and it you will try them, you will find they will suit you. J. W. HULL, Agent.
